What office and district are you a candidate for?

State Representative 85th District outstanding music events

Every town in Connecticut can boast cultural assets that contribute to a vibrant community and improve the quality of life for its residents.

What are some exciting arts and cultural events and organizations that you have experienced in your community?

Outstanding concerts and other musical events by Wallingford Symphony and Choate Rosemary Hall; musical "1776" for town's 350th birthday; women artists' show for 350th birthday

If elected, will you work to strengthen the arts and culture community in the town(s) you serve? If so, how? If not, why?

Yes, both supporting local artists and in the state budget

Sandwiched between Boston and New York, Connecticut is often dismissed as a “pass through” state when it comes to tourism. Yet, our state has many world class arts institutions and a rich cultural landscape.

Why do you think arts and culture are important in Connecticut? What is unique about our state's arts and culture?

The arts make the state interesting. It is easy to get to arts venues because CT is compact in size. In some cities, the arts are the most notable feature of the modern day city: New Britain's Museum of American Art is an example. Visitors spend the day there, then find a local restaurant.

During the Covid-19 pandemic, many people discovered that arts and creativity play a critical role in helping us cope with emotional stress and sustain our mental health. Art helped us process loss, fight loneliness, stay connected and feel hopeful.

Can you share a way that the arts have helped you, your family or your community get through the difficult times of Covid? How will that experience influence choices about the arts you would make as a legislator?

We did make use of the arts during COVID, and took my husband to New Britain Museum of American Art for his birthday celebration. Art is refreshing after a tough period of isolation.

The arts and creativity have a proven track record of economic benefit to our state. The National Endowment for the Arts' Office of Research & Analysis and the Bureau of Economic Analysis report that, in 2020, arts and cultural production in Connecticut added $8.9 billion to our economy and accounted for 3.2 percent of our gross state product, while the arts and cultural industries employed 49,159 workers with wages and benefits totaling more than $5.1 billion. Despite these contributions, the arts have historically been first on the chopping block when it comes to budget priorities. What would you do to help keep arts and creativity funded in our state at a level that recognizes their economic importance?

Ideally, I would re-institute 1% for the arts in public buildings. The rule was repealed in a recent budget but not widely recognized until after passage.

Connecticut has not had an Arts Education Specialist at the State Department of Education (SDE) since 2016, when the last specialist left. This position is critical to assuring that our State and National Arts Education Standards are consistently implemented in all of Connecticut's school districts, especially those in under-resourced communities where students' access to the Arts is often extremely limited compared to affluent communities.

If elected, would you support refilling the Arts Education Specialist at SDE? If not, why?

Yes. We have a projected surplus, so this restoration should be possible. Not every student can attend the arts magnet school, but every student can benefit from self expression and relaxation in the arts. I saw this while serving as a substitute teacher: arts classes were the most calming and students seemed to be happy there.
